

Making your Creative Dreams Real

The sun, so stiflingly hot, into a bookstore I merrily trot.
Sitting on a shelf,
like a cuckoo on a tree, this appealing and enticing book I see.

I flip open the title page, stylish words come prancing on stage.
Before my captivated eyes, dazzling stars come sparkling by.
With a brief flick,
I scan the book,
careful not to miss a sight, and decide to take it home with delight.

This book encourages me to mark out my goal, which is indeed great help to my soul.
It redefines 'creative dream', and to one's lost self it acts as a beam.

In the book,
arts, challenges, gifts and games, none of which are ever the same,
keep my dreams ultimate,
and help me grow more passionate.

A creative mix of unique typeset is what this book actually is.
In Sark's warm and gentle way, she leads me, faithfully every day, on a magical journey to identify dreams,
overcome fears,
and combat obstacles
that keep getting in my way.

The book digs out my inner yearnings, making me realize that I was held back by my outdated thinking.
By inhaling and exhaling Sark's every word, gradually, gradually,
I am inspired to think and not only to nod and blink.

Wonderful and resourceful, this book brings a major change in myself.
No more procrastinations, no more excuse, this book prompts me
to outline my future dream achievements, which brings me to sheer excitement!
To realize my dream, I solemnly vow, and never to difficulties shall I bow.

After this book I have some thoughts, to dare to dream, as I ought.
Go for the goal and strive for the best, and most importantly, learn to relax.

The colourful pages
are the enchanting details of the life that's mine.
No one but me, I dare say, is the spirit of my life and day.

Thanks, dear Sark, for teaching me via this book of how unique my dreams can be.
To my dearest readers of whom I mean you, no matter what stage you are at life, to your dreams you all must strive.
You will be enthralled
to see what life has in store for you, and I wish you success in everything you do!
